Bates Motel is about a rundown motel that is located off the side of a highway in which a mother and son take over to start up their new business. Of course this hotel isn't set out to be what they had imaged and the son, Norman cannot handle what is going on around him. There is so much enveloping him when he starts school and work that his mental personality cannot handle all of it, so his personality becomes split. The main host being a model of himself and the other, his mother.
